Tour Itinerary

Touring the Golden Circle, visiting Þingvellir National Park, Gullfoss waterfall, and Geysir geothermal area is an amazing experience that is usually followed by peaceful exhaustion. Therefore we will visit the natural geothermal baths at Laugarvatn Fontana Spa after Þingvellir National Park to unwind and revitalise before continuing to Gullfoss waterfall and Geysir geothermal area.

For almost a century locals in the community of Laugarvatn have been enjoying the healing powers of natural steam from a geothermal field at the edge of the lake. Built over this geothermal area, the Laugarvatn Fontana wellness centre features geothermal steam rooms, hot pools and outdoor mineral baths and a fantastic view over the lake.

At Laugarvatn Fontana centre you will find Fontana café that offers a nice selection of healthy and locally produced delicacies and refreshments. The menu also includes soup of the day and trout from the lake which, is a great idea for those that just want to enjoy the facilities without going to the baths.

Please note

- The stop at the natural geothermal baths at Laugarvatn Fontana Spa is approximately 2 hours.
- Bring swim suit and a towel (can be rented at Fontana Spa at own cost).

Overnight in Reykjavik.

ICELAND

Exclusions

- Food other than stated in tour description

Tour Itinerary

The Secret Lagoon is a natural hot spring and pool located near the village of Flúðir in South Iceland, just off the Golden Circle route. Fed by mineral-rich geothermal water from nearby hot springs at a steady temperature of 38° to 40°, the Secret Lagoon's pool of water is perfect for bathing and relaxation.

Icelandic open-air bathing experience

Over the years, the Secret Lagoon, or Gamla laugin as it was referred to by locals, has been part of the local culture that is keeping alive the unique and authentic Icelandic open-air geothermal bathing experience.

Hot springs and geothermal features

The Secret Lagoon offers neat and clean locker rooms, showers and changing facilities, as well as a small bar and eating area. Boardwalks and footpaths surround the concrete encased pool enabling guests to explore small hot springs and geothermal features in the immediate area.

Light Buffet

After bathing in the Secret Lagoon, the tour continues to Restaurant Grund for a delicious light buffet where you can enjoy sampling variety of Icelandic cuisine.

Northern Lights Hunt

Heading back to Reykjavik, the exciting hunt for the elusive Northern lights begins. Your guide and driver will scout and select viewing spots to give you the best chances of experiencing the amazing display of auroras.
